WALL STREET, TUESDAY, May 20-6 P. M. \
On 'Change to-day cotton continued dull. Flour was in good demand and firm. Wheat was rather easter and corn heavy.

THE EXPORTS OF THE WEEK. The total exports of domestic merchandise during the week ending May 20, 1873, were of the value, Au currency, of $5,452,894. THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Advices from London are to the effect that & further sum of £52,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank of England. The rate of discount remains unchanged. The market has visibly strengthened, consols being firm, while United States bonds were higher, with an unward tendency. The issues of 1867 were active and advanced % per cent to 93%. The new fives also moved upward % per cent and are quoted at 88%. Tenorties participate in the general buoyancy of the market and are marked 88% a 88%. The new French loan commands a premium of 21/4 a 21/4 per cent, which is, doubtless, attributable to the nev French coalition between in the Corps Legislatif and to the imminence of an outbreak in France. At the close of the day Erie was quoted at 49% a 49%—an advance of % per cent. Rentes 54f. 70c. No further advices have been received from the Continent, and the tremor d by the anticipation of further financia sment has, for the present, subsided. There are those, however, who believe that the rouble has not passed; that the spirit of speculation has embraced in its folds large numbers of persons, who will eventually be forced into liquidsion, and that more disturbance will consequently be felt in financial circles abroad than is now generally supposed on this side of the Atlantic. At time confidence is expressed in the ability of the prime German and Austrian bankers to withstand the storm, and when its worst throes have passed away it is alleged that the atmosphere will be purer and credit stronger than

The market remains unchanged in the features previously recorded. Money was a trifle easier, he rate of interest on call loans ranging from 4 to 7 per cent, with the majority of transactions on the asis of 5 a 6 per cent. Prime commercial paper found ready sale at 7 a 9 per cent discount. The supply of money is still abundant, and no fear is expressed that it will become scarce during the nmer. It is a well known fact that the South has absorbed a large amount of our currency, and here are but few points-as, for instance, New Orleans, Memphis and Charleston-irom which it returns. It has entered into the Southern circulacurrent should turn Northward during the Summer money will be easier and lower than even at present; but in any event there seems no reason why it should not maintain its present rates.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE was weak, and the bankers lowered their rate & per cent for sterling. This is in pursuance of the reaction referred to yesterday in the HERALD. to-day were $442,000. to-day were $442,000.

The specie shipment engagements for to-morrow's steamers for Europe amount to $100,000 in gold. It is understood that this sum is forwarded by the British Bank of North America.

RATLEGAD BONDS. in railread bonds Erie fives sold at par. Union Pacific incomes were steady and the land grants beavy. Fort Wayne thirds sold at 93. C., C. and I. C. firsts brought $9%. Canada Southerns were lower, and Lake Shore new registered bonds firm at par. The market was fairly active, with a well distributed business. The following were the bids at the call as amended by the prices in subsequent Southern bonds were dull and transactions light. Virginia sixes and Alabama sixes fell off. The other ecurities were steady. The quotations were as folsecurities were steady. STOCKS DUDL AND STEADY.

The general tone of the market has been dull and firm, and transactions, save in Pacific Mail, Erle and Western Union, were comparatively light. The opening was weak, the first sale of Pacific Mail being at 45, that stock going off to 46%; but, recovering, the price hovered around 45% a 46 until near the close of the day, when it sold at 46%. Erie was active, as a sequence of the favorable advices from London, opening at 62% and steadily improving until it touched 64%. The London SPECULATORS IN ERIE seem to have again obtained control of the market, their design as regards the leasing of the Great Western Railroad to the Eric Company having been furthered by the consequences of the Vienna panic, which several days ago precipitated a large amount of the stock on the English market. Western Union was dull, the lowest price being 85%, from which point it advanced to 86%. New York Central was especially strong late in the afternoon, and turned the corner of 101, its example being imitated by Lake Shore, which advanced to 91, the twe stocks showing more or less sympathy with each other.

ST. PAUL as steady, notwithstanding the announcement by the company of the closing of the books, which, aithough done on the 17th inst., was made public only within a day or two. This action was taken against the issue to stockholders as first choosers of a new ten per cent equipment loan, the nature and character of which are set forth as follows:-

and charaster of which are set forth as follows:—

The opening of the new road between Milwaukee and Chicago and extension of other lines of the company having developed a large additional traffic have made it necessary for the company to procure an increased amount of equipment and to lay steel rails on the main lines; also to procure additional depot grounds and improve the same. To provide the necessary funds therefor and also for the building of a bridge across the Mississippi River at La Crosse, the Board of Directors have resolved to issue $2,000,000. of bonds, to be styled "Equipment and Bridge bends," which are to be a first lien on the bridge and a second lien on the reliways of the company, excepting the La Crosse and Prairie du Chien divisions, on which the new bonds will be a third lien. Said bonds are to be $1,000 each, drawing ten per cent interest, payable semi-annually on the 1st of June and 1st of December, principal due June 1, 1883, the company having the option, on ninety days' notice, to pay the bond at any time after June 1, 1878. One million five hundred thousand of said bonds are now offered to the common and preferred shareholders, at par and interest, in proportion to the amount of shares held by each, say, one bond for every hundred shares of stock, inasmuch as some persons, especially trustees, will probably sectine to subscribe. Payment may be one bond for every hundred shares of stock, inas-much as some persons, especially trustees, will probably secline to subscribe. Payment may be made in one sum or in monthly instalments of twenty per cent each. In all cases interest will be reckened at ten per cent per annum, being the same as the bonds. The directors reserve the right to close this offer at any time. Bonds will be ready for delivery June 1, 1873. There has been a little more activity lately in

NORTHWESTERN PREFERRED, the result, it is shrewdly suspected, of orders to sell the stock for account of the German market a further consequence in turn of the Vienna panic. Union Pacific and C., C. and I. C. kept side by side in an upward turn to a common quotation of 31. The rest of the market calls for little remark furday, outside of the features already mentioned, was about 3/2 per cent. The fact has, doubtless, been observed and commented upon that Wall street is at the present moment other than such as Jay Gould is credited to be, for there is scarcely a movement up or down now-adays for which, there being no reasonable ex-planation, he is not supposed to be directly or indirectly responsible. In fact, this one individual appears to be the "bugaboo" of the bulls and bears, alternately. To illustrate: The market being now at slack water, the gossips have it that Jay Gould is "short" of Western Union and long of other stocks, among which are prominently mentioned St. Paul and Pacific Mail; that he is keeping these stocks down to the end, that by sympathy he may likewise depress Western Union and thus be enabled to close his contracts in that stock without loss. The election in Lake Shore took away the Lake Shore party, who, after finishing their business in Cleveland, extended their trip to the line of the Pacific Railroad, and are not expected back until the latter part of the week, when, if these same gossips are to be believed, there will be "MUSIC IN THE AIR."

The reason given is that when schell & Clark return they will find the market underlaid with a broad "short" interest, against which they will move as instinctively as a Spanish bull would charge a scarlet rag.

TUBSDAY, May 20—6 P. M.

The trade movement continued slow in most departments, while some of the leading articles of merchandise experienced a further decline in value. Dry goods continued to vaciliate some-what, and in some cases current quotations show a further concession. Hardware has ruled comparatively steady-more steady than most other commodities. Cotton remained dull and nearly nominal. On 'Change flour was quiet and steady for want of stock, lines of shipping extra being particularly scarce. Wheat was in better request for both export and milling, but the offerings were larger and prices were lewer, especially for ordinary Spring, which was pressed for sale, and, being in little request, sold decidedly lower, and closed heavy. Corn was dull, but prices remained without noteworthy change, though the market but off heavy. Oats were in mederate request, and prices tended in favor of the buyer. There was very little movement in provisions. Pork was dull and nominal in the absence of sales, while lard was dult and decidedly the absence of sales, while lard was duil and decidedly lower. Freight room was scarcer than ever, and rates were very high, while vessels for charter were correspondingly dear. Greceries were generally quiet, and for sugar the market was weak. Petroleum was quiet, and without noticeable change in prices. Naval stores were neglected, and easier for both spirits and rosin. Metals were quiet, and not essentially changed in prices. Wool met with a moderate demand at steady prices. Whiskey was higher.

Wool met with a moderate demand at steady prices. Whiskey was higher.

THE BLACK BUTCHER.

Jackson, the Woman Murderer, Hunted Down at Last in a Den in the Eighth Ward-He Confesses Part of His Crime-An Attempt to Kill Himself-A Mysterious Accomplice-Who is He! Jackson, the negro who is alleged to have mur he lived at 57% Thompson street, was arrested yesterday afternoon. Captain McCullough received information yesterday morning that Jackson was concealed in the building at the southeast corner of South Fifth avenue and Houston street. The Captain, with the assistance of Sergeant Schultz, searched every nook and corner of the house, and found him at last, at half-past one P. M. in the basement, in a saloon which is frequented by negroes of the lowest class. He lay concealed in a dark, narrow closet. Two shutters were stretched across, and the negro was stretched on some foul moaned and writhed with pain when the Captain entered the closet. He was bleeding from a terri-ble bloody gash that had almost severed his neck from his body. The blood trickled down his breast from his body. The blood trickled down his break and had stained the right which he had lain on lackson seemed very much tricklessed when Captain McCullough spoke to him. There were many clots of blood on the negro's forchead, and some smaller ones beneath his eyes.

HE STARED WILDLY BEFORE HIM with an expression of terror.

"Well, so we have found you at last, Jackson," the Captain said to the negro, who was stricken speechless with fear.

He gasped and moaned, and seemed unable to utter a word, "Oh, Captain," he said, pointing at the terrible gash in his neck, "I am very glad to see you." "You thought jod would make your escape?" the Captain asked. The negro's frame quivered, and his hands trembled convulsively as he raised them to his wound.

"I knew that I could not get away, Captain," he "I knew that I could not get away, Captain," he said, sinking his tone to a scarcely audible whisper. "I intended to come and give myself up to you, Captain."

The blood flowed down freely while he spoke.

"Jackson, why didn't you come before now?" the Captain pursued.

"I was afraid to show myself, Captain," Jackson replied. "I knew you were after me and I wanted to give myself up when the thing had been quieted down."

"Well, you!!! have to come to the police statics."

Well, you'll have to come to the police station,"

"Well, you'll have to come to the police station,"
the Captain said.
Jackson was removed in an ambulance to the Eighth ward police station.
As soon AS IT BECAME KNOWN that the alleged murderer of Caroline McDermott had been arrested an immense crowd gathered around the station. Several hundred negroes and negresses stood patiently in front of the building, waiting to catch a glimpse of Jackson. They were very much excited and some of them expressed sympathy with the alleged murderer.
Coroner Herrman was called and took charge of the case. After Jackson's wound had been bandaged the Coroner interrogated nim at length.
Jackson's answers were broken by pain and scarcely sudible. He surfered very much while he spoke.

scarcely audible. He said, "she fell down a flight of spoke.
"This woman," he said, "she fell down a flight of stairs. We had been out that night and I had given her several glasses of liquor. When I got home I took her up Stairs. I started for the doctor and a fellow told me she was dead. I then went to the closet and cut my throat."

Coroner Herrman—Who was this "fellow" who told you she was dead?

Jackson (gasping with anguish)—He wanted my Jackson (gasping with anguish)—He wanted my bank book and wanted to take possession of all my things; he used to come and see her all the my things; he used to come and see her all the time.

CORONER—Who was this man?

JACKSON—I don't know who he was.

IR WAS A TALL, LIGHT FELLOW.

But he was colored man. When this man left me he said, "You can do just as you like." He said, "You wait till foome back; I'll just go and see if she is dead, if she is dead you cut yaur throat." I didn't wait, but I got so scared that I cut myself with the razor.

with the razor.

Coroner—Did you not use a little piece of iron in Jackson (his eyes rolling horribly)—No, sir; no sir. I used a little cane, with which I struck her once—that was all. I didn't use any iron at all, sir. Jackson was handcuffed and then taken to Bellevue Hospital. The crowd that surrounded the ambulance was enormous. It yelled and hooted and shouted when Jackson came out, ard it almost seemed as though the mob intended to make a rush at him. The police soon drove the crowd back, however, and the ambulance rattled quickly away. Jackson is six feet high, broad shouldered, and evidently a man of great physical strength. His face has an expression of brutal ferocity, and there is a strange fire in his large black eyes. He is a very desperate man, and will be closely watched while at Believue Hospital. His wound is about six inches in length, severing the superficial jugular vein. It begins on the right side of the neck and excends to the medium line. The knife grazed the windpipe, so that the air comes out with a hissing sound when he breathes, and it also cut the thyroid arteries. Dr. T. H. White, who was prosent at the examination, gave it as his opinion that Jackson will probably recover. It may take six origination, gave it as his opinion that Jackson will probably recover. It may take six origination, gave it as his opinion that Jackson will try to close the wound. They will be healed. At present the greatest danger is the brobability of infammation of he lungs setting in, and the physician will try to close the wound. They will be able to tell in a few days whether Jackson will recover. There is a strong probability that he will, and as he has already conlessed his crime—having admitted that he struck the woman and attempted suicide to escape punishment—it is hoped that he will be speedily tried. Coroner Herrman and Captain McGullough told the likealb reporter that they believed Jackson's story. The Captain thinks it quite probable that which Jackson admits having indicted, caused the woman's death, and that Jackson determined to die by his own hand rather than suffer the fate of Foster and Nixon. Jackson was so feeble year believed Jackson's story. The Captain hand have in the close." The barkeper of the den in which Jackson had lain concealed ever since he committed the murder was asked by Captain McGullough why be had concealed a man accused of minde

THE ONE BLOW,

ANOTHER BROOKLYN MYSTERY. Disappearance of a Wealthy German.

The mysterious disappearance of a wealthy Ger-man, named Max Bechaffer, who resided at 359 Degraw street, Brooklyn, is exciting considerable comment. Mr. Bechaffer received a draft from Germany, and left home on the 2d of May for the purpose of proceeding to some banking house and getting it cashed. On leaving home he stated that he would soon return, and as he is a man of very regular habits it is feared by his family and friends that he has been foully dealt with. Information of his disappearance was communicated to his relatives. Herzog & Co., of 350 Brondway, New York, had been accustomed to see him almest daily, but they have not seen him since the day of his disappearance. The Brooklyn detectives were informed of the disappearance of the gentleman, but they have been unable to obtain any clew to his whareadouts. Degraw strest, Brooklyn, is exciting considerable
